TORNADO TO HAVE MINIMAL IMPACT ON PACIFICA

Pacifica Group announced today that the tornado which damaged the General Motors' facility in Oklahoma City over the weekend would be likely to have only a minimal impact on the profitability of PBR, Pacifica's automotive subsidiary.

PBR supplies the brakes to the GMT370 truck platform which is assembled at General Motors' Oklahoma City plant.

"PBR supplies various products to numerous vehicle platforms and we have the ability to manage our production to cover any short-term disruption at General Motors' Oklahoma plant," said Tony Clarke, Pacifica's Finance Director. "Whilst initially there will be some lost sales, we estimate that this will not be significant to our overall business," he said.
